Dear Senator Landrieu,

I deeply appreciate your support for human rights and the rule of law and it is in that spirit that I am writing to strongly urge you to stand up for those of us in this great country that have been a victim of our flawed justice system.

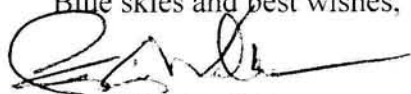

I have been a victim of our faulty criminal justice system and I fully understand how innocent people can be railroaded and punished unjustly. It seems that our current system of justice is to presume guilt until innocence is proven—and this innocence is often difficult to prove in a corrupted and unjust system. In fighting for my innocence I witnessed how Detective Preston Peavy, with the help of other officers with the Cherokee County Sheriff's Department, committed back to back misdemeanor and felony crimes in their back to back consistent attempts to manufacture my guilt. Our legal system is no longer a truth seeking process, but rather a nightmare where a person becomes a cog in a wheel of legal jargon and technicalities that is often latent with incompetence and corruption—and when crimes against a citizen are committed by these officers of the State, complex immunity laws protect them.

We must simplify our legal system and use common law and common sense in the legal processes so that a person (especially the innocent) feels like a human being and not like some inanimate object of narcissistic prosecutors with tunnel vision who are only concerned for a conviction.

Search Kerry Walker Story on the web for the details of this case.

I look forward to your reply.

Blue skies and best wishes,
